D. R. MUSSELMAN BITTINGER MAN DIES SUDDENLY RECOVERS TEAM

Well Known Resident of Fairfield Falls Dead at his Desk. Director of Citizen's Trust Company. An Active Business Man.

Stricken suddenly while sitting at his desk David R. Musselman, of Fairfield, one of Adams County's best known and most highly respected citizens, fell dead at his home in Fairfield shortly after ten o'clock this morning.

Mr. Musselman had been in apparently good health and nothing could have been more unexpected than the sudden death of the man who had proved himself to be a good citizen, an estimable gentleman and a successful business man.

A number of friends were in his office when the fatal malady seized him and they rushed to his side. He gave a few gasps and life was extinct before medical aid could be of avail.

Mr. Musselman was born on the old Musselman farm about a mile from Fairfield 67 years ago. He was educated in the common schools and for many years conducted a store in the town which he made his life long home. About twenty years ago he was chosen justice of the peace and ever since then had been filling that position with marked ability. He was prominently identified with the interests of the town in which he lived.

He was a director in the Citizens' Trust Company since its founding and was a familiar figure on the streets of Gettysburg where he was well known and most highly respected. He was a director in the Adams County Mutual Insurance Company and was also identified with other insurance organizations. Mr. Musselman was a member and an officer of the Lutheran church at Fairfield.

Surviving him are his wife and one son, Clarence Musselman, one of Fairfield's prominent merchants.

The time for the funeral has not been announced.

Horse and Wagon Taken December 4 Recovered after Exposure to Cold and Rain of Many Days. No Clue to Miscreant.

The horse and buggy found near Highfield after days of exposure, as told in yesterday's Times, prove to be the property of Paul Kitzmiller, of near Bittinger, this county. They were stolen from a shed in Hanover Sunday night, Dec. 4.

Chief of Police Kiser, of Hanover, on Saturday received information from the sheriff's office at Hagerstown, Md., that a team answering the description of the one taken had been found tethered in a woods at Lake Royer, near Highfield, by John Pott and his wife, residents of that section. Mr. Pott took the horse and buggy to his stable and gave the animal proper care.

Officer Kiser was requested by the Washington County authorities to come and identify the team, and Monday proceeded to Highfield, accompanied by Aaron Nace by whom Mr. Kitzmiller, owner of the team is employed. They readily recognized the horse and buggy as Kitzmiller's property. Harness, blankets, etc., were also found the only things missing being Mr. Kitzmiller's overcoat and a pair of heavy driving gloves.

The horse had evidently been standing in the woods from Sunday night, December 5, to Friday night, December 10—five days, as the team, with two young men in the buggy, was observed passing through Emmitsburg Sunday, December 5, about 3 p. m. The parties who had the team in their possession had taken the trouble to blanket the horse and give it a small quantity of hay; the small branches of nearby trees had been eaten off by the horse.

The team was delivered to Mr. Kitzmiller on Tuesday. There is so far no clue to the identity of the men who took the team from the shed.

YORK SPRINGS

York Springs, Dec. 15—The Commissioners of Adams County with their clerk, S. Miley Miller, held the appeal at York Springs on Monday, Dec. 13th for the townships of Huntington, Tyrone, Latimore and York Springs. Their way of holding the appeal is commended as they refer to the assessment of 1907 and compare with 1910. If the valuations are raised or lowered they find out the reason and if there have been any mistakes made by the assessors in computing the total it is soon corrected.

The Willing Workers of the Lutheran church held a bazaar on Friday and Saturday nights. Fifty dollars was realized by the sale of articles.

A coat of paint has improved the appearance of the Comet office.

The doctors are kept busy day and night. The disease prevalent is pneumonia.

Jonathan Miller, who has been working at masonry in Carlisle, is spending this week at his home here.

CAMP IS PROSPERING

Washington Camp, 453, P. O. S. of A., of Arendtsville, will have an oyster supper on the evening of January 11, 1910, to which a cordial invitation is extended to all its members and their wives or "lady friends." The camp is getting along well. It was instituted about the first of last July and has a membership of one hundred. The charter will be open till Jan. 1, 1910. Applicants between the ages of 16 and 50 years can join before the charter closes for the sum of $1.50, after that date it will cost according to age from $3 to $10.

EYE KNOCKED OUT

A very distressing accident occurred at the power plant in Mt. Holly Springs Tuesday morning. William Zug, for three and a half years the efficient engineer at the plant, climbed on a step ladder to shut off a water gauge, the glass having broken. An explosion followed and Mr. Zug's left eye was knocked out of the socket. Dr. Irwin was summoned and rendered the necessary attention. He hopes to save the sight of the right eye, providing it is not too seriously affected by the left eye. Mr. Zug is married and has four children.

FAMOUS OLD DEER GETTYSBURG AT GLEN FURNEY

Long John, the Buck which has Successfully Eluded Hunters for Many Years Causes Some Excitement on Mountain.

No deer in all his section is half so famous as the big black buck—"Long John" he is sometimes called—that inhabits the mountain in the vicinity of Glen Furney and makes frequent trips to the "settlement" during the closed season for deer. He is a magnificent big fellow and has frequently been seen by hunters from Gettysburg and this county but has rarely been caught within effective rifle range.

A correspondent tells of his latest visit to Glen Furney, as follows: "Long John," the seven pronged buck that cannot be found by the diligent hunters during the open season for deer, left his abode on the mountains, yesterday, and executed some funny stunts to the delight of many persons at Glen Furney.

He was first seen coming from the direction of Barnes knob, looking as noble as ever, with his massive antlers thrown back. His first offense against the trespass law was to jump the fence and, make himself at home in Farmer Pentz's wheat field. Here he spied one of Mr. Pentz's horses and went toward it. The horse evidently had no desire of forming an acquaintance, for it trotted off to the astonishment of his majesty, the buck.

With the air and dignity of one in authority he walked leisurely in the direction of Pentz's barn, causing ducks and geese to fly in all directions at his approach. By this time he was discovered by a number of small boys, who put up a yell. This caused him to throw his tail in the air and bolt for the S. H. Brown farm. Here Jacob Brown's bull pup and another dog were at play. The buck's eyes fell upon the pair and after making several bounds in the air with the grace and activity of a young kid, he made towards the dogs. The strange dog took to the woods and the bull pup made across the field at breakneck speed with the buck at his heels.

The yelps of the pup, in making his escape, attracted the attention of the Brown household who witnessed the race. When a short distance from the Brown house the buck gave up and walked carelessly back.

When last seen he was chewing forestry notices from trees posted on the state land.

KNOUSE-HAWBECKER

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Knouse, of Franklin Grove, Illinois, have arrived at the home of the former's father, William Knouse, of near Brysonia, on their wedding tour.

On Thanksgiving day Mr. Knouse was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Hawbecker, of near Franklin Grove, at the home of the bride. The following is in part the account of the event given in a paper of that city.

Elder E. J. Knouse, a cousin of the groom, performed the ceremony in the presence of forty seven relatives and friends. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Nita Sunday as the bridal party entered the parlor and took their places beneath a canopy that had been beautifully constructed of lace drapery trimmed with tinsel and supporting a handsome large, red wedding bell. The young people were attended by Miss Estella Hawbecker, sister of the bride, and Miss Ella Maronde as bridesmaids, and Ralph Richwine and Charles Lentz as best men.

Following the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served by a number of young ladies. The tables were laden with every luscious combination of goods things to eat, and by the clusters of ferns intermingled with carnations. The bride is a young lady of charming personality, who enjoys the esteem of a large circle of friends. The groom is a promising young man who will carve out for himself a successful future in their new home.

TO HOLD FESTIVAL

The Citizens' Band of Bendersville will hold a festival in that place from Saturday, December 18 to Saturday, December 25, inclusive. Numerous fancy articles and good things to eat will be on sale. The public is cordially invited.

J. D. Clapsaddle, of route 13, has bought the farm of William H. Cromer, of the same route.

ARENDTSVILLE

Arendtsville, Dec. 15—The two Sunday Schools of this place are practicing their programs and will hold their entertainment on Christmas eve.

Hanson W. Taylor purchased the Fred Knacksted farm at public outcry last Thursday, about 50 acres situated in Butler township for $750.

Pigs and shoats for next year's killing are reported very scarce in this locality.

Harry M. Keller, of near this place, who has already thirty two acres of young bearing apple trees, is now busy planting forty three acres more.

Last Friday and Saturday our young folks enjoyed skating on ice three inches thick on the Conewago Creek, but the heavy rain on Monday raised the creek and the ice is all gone.

Charles McDaniel's new set of buildings that he put up on his farm since harvest make an excellent appearance.

Lewis Ullrich, of Biglerville, has been busy here the last week putting heating plants in Hiram W. Trostle's and Arthur Robert's new houses.

Adams Lodge, No. 352, K. of P., of Arendtsville, will hold its annual oyster supper in the lodge's hall on Thursday evening, December 30, to which all the members, and their wives or "lady friends" are cordially invited.

Urban Kime, formerly of near this place, but now of Altoona is visiting at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Noah Fleck.

Rescued Dog

John Hewitt and Carney Butt, of this place, have to their credit the rescue of a dog from probable death by exposure or drowning. On Tuesday the young men went to the vicinity of McAllister's Dam in search of pine for Christmas decorations. When they approached Rock Creek they saw a lonely cur marooned on a rock in the middle of the stream. He had evidently started to cross and got stranded. The boys made a lasso and after several efforts caught the dog and dragged him to shore. The animal was in a sad plight from hunger and cold and did not wait to show his gratitude but made off at a dead run for some warmer place.

Inmates of Georgia Prisons Beautifying Highways.

The roads of Swainsboro, Ga., are fast being converted from veritable sand beds into beautiful turnpike clay roads. The county chain gang, which is now about fifty strong, including thirty felony convicts, Emanuel's quota of the state convicts, is doing fine work in road building, under the supervision of M. B. Boatright, who has had much experience in practical road building.

However, the people of the county, while awakening somewhat to the fact that they must be up and doing in matters pertaining to roads if they would keep pace with their neighboring counties, still do not show the proper interest in the construction of their roads, or, rather, in the keeping up of the roads after they are built by the chain gang. There seems to be an idea abroad that it is the chain gang's province to keep up the roads as well as to construct them, and this idea must be eliminated before a thorough good road movement can be instilled and substantial improvements made on the county's highways.

The Beautiful Acacias.
The Australian acacias, or watties, as they are popularly called, form a valuable group of plants for greenhouse decoration during winter and spring, while for the mild districts in the south they are excellent for outdoor culture. When grown for the conservatory or greenhouse they are usually placed in pots or tubs, but where space can be afforded in winter gardens and similar structures they are first rate subjects for planting in borders. Planted in this manner, they grow rapidly into large bushes and flower profusely. One objection may be raised in planting acacias in borders, for in the event of a specimen getting too large for its position it cannot be successfully transplanted.

SILVER WATTLE.

without going to a great deal of trouble, for few shrubs or trees are more difficult to establish after serious root disturbance. By an annual pruning from the earliest years of a plant's life, however, it may be kept within bounds with little difficulty, while the selection of varieties of moderate growth is a point to consider. Although acacias will stand a very severe annual pruning, it is unwise to cut them back to old wood, for it rarely breaks away again satisfactorily.

MISSIONARY'S WIFE PRAISES CUTICURA

Daughter's Head Encrusted with Dandruff—Feared she Would Lose her Hair—Many Treatments were Futile—Baby had Milk-Crust.

BOTH CHILDREN CURED BY FAMOUS REMEDIES

"For several years my husband was a missionary in the Southwest, and we were living on the edge of the desert at an elevation of nearly five thousand feet. Every one in that high and dry atmosphere has more or less trouble with dandruff and my daughter's scalp became so encrusted with it that I was alarmed for fear she would lose all her hair, which was very heavy. After spending between five and six dollars for various remedies, in desperation I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. After rubbing the Cuticura Ointment thoroughly into the roots of the hair, I gently combed the crust of dandruff free from the scalp, and then gave her head a thorough shampoo with the Cuticura Soap. This left the scalp beautifully clean and free from dandruff, and after the hair was dry, I again rubbed the Cuticura Ointment, this time sparingly, into the roots, and I am happy to say that the Cuticura Remedies were a complete success. My troubles with dandruff were over, although for a long time afterward I used the Cuticura Ointment as at first, after shampooing, which kept the scalp and roots of the hair moist. I have used successfully the Cuticura Remedies for so-called 'milk-crust' on baby's head, and have never found anything to equal them. You are at liberty to publish this letter, for I do sincerely believe that the Cuticura Remedies are a blessing to mankind. Mrs. J. A. Darling, 310 Fifth St., Carthage, Ohio, Jan. 20, 1908."

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful curatives for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed, when necessary, by a mild dose of Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills) is often sufficient to afford immediate relief of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Mfrs., Boston, Mass. 407 Mailed Free, Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases.

ALEC TILTON'S FIND.

By ESTHER VANDEVEER.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Alexander Tilton, a young American of twenty-five with an inherited fortune estimated at from seven to twelve millions, after being graduated at college went abroad for travel. One day while walking alone in the fashionable residential portion of London he stopped to witness an auction of household furniture in one of the fashionable houses. During the sale he espied a lady's writing desk that struck his fancy, one of those spindle shanked affairs that our great-grandmothers regarded very pretty and which one prizes for their age. Tilton bid on the desk, and it was knocked down to him.

Among those who attended the sale was a young man who evidently took a great interest in the proceedings. Whenever a bookcase, a cabinet, a table—indeed, anything with even a single drawer in it—was put up he examined it closely, and several articles of the kind he bid in. When Tilton bought the lady's desk this man was out of the room. When he found that it had been sold during his absence he went to its purchaser and offered him a fine profit. Tilton didn't like the man's looks and was suspicious of his reason for wanting the article, and when the would be purchaser offered him a bonus of £100 for his bargain he felt sure there was some especial reason why the man wanted it. As money was no object to Tilton he would listen to no offer whatever. Indeed, fearing that he might be surreptitiously deprived of his purchase, he had the desk packed at once and superintended its removal to his hotel.

There he made a thorough examination of it. Every drawer was empty. He took a little hammer and tapped all over it to discover if there was any compartment that was not apparent. No sound indicated such a space. He pulled out every drawer and turned it upside down on the floor; then examined the wood against which the back of the drawers rested when shut. His next move was to unscrew the back of the desk and take it off. Out fell several papers yellow with age. All but one were love letters, and that was a certificate of marriage between Reginald Leighton and Eugenia Booth.

What had impelled Tilton to pursue this hunt he could not explain even to himself. Nor could he now explain what prompted him to start on another hunt in search of Reginald Leighton and Eugenia Booth. Inquiry told him that the house containing the desk had belonged to Sir Spafford Leighton, the father of Reginald Leighton, and that Reginald had died in America. Reginald's older brother, Sir Arthur Leighton, had recently died childless, and the title and estate had passed to Digby Moore, a distant connection of the Leighton family. This Digby Moore was the man who wished to possess the desk. Eugenia Booth had been lady's companion to Reginald and Arthur Leighton's mother. When Reginald went to America Eugenia had left the service of the Leighton family.

Reginald being dead, Tilton's search was for his wife. But as it did not appear that she had ever passed under the name of Leighton he concluded to hunt for her as Eugenia Booth.

After a long investigation he found that fifteen years before she had gone to America. Tilton took the next steamer for home. One of the letters he found in the desk was from Reginald to Eugenia from a ranch in Idaho. Thither he went and discovered that Reginald Leighton had been dead fifteen years—that at the time of his death a woman appeared who claimed to be his wife; but, having no evidence to prove her marriage with him, her claims had not been admitted.

After spending much money on a staff of assistants he employed to investigate every woman by the name of Leighton living in America Tilton at last traced the widow to a western city. There he found her, broken in health, supported by a daughter, Beatrice, a teacher in the public schools. They lived in a ramshackle cottage and in a narrow street. When Tilton went there he was admitted by Beatrice. He asked to see her mother and was admitted to a room where she sat in an easy chair propped up with pillows.

"Mrs. Leighton," he said, "twenty-two years ago you were secretly married to Reginald Leighton."

"I was," said the lady, wonder stricken at this coming from a stranger.

"Where did you put the certificate of your marriage?"

"In Lady Leighton's desk. It was stolen from there by some of the family who were my enemies."

"You are mistaken. It slipped down behind the drawer. Here it is."

The expression on the woman's face as she looked upon the long lost document was indescribable. Then she turned from it to Tilton in a confused wonder. He told his story. When he had finished he drew his check for all the funds mother and daughter would require for a trip to England to establish their claim to the Leighton estate. With the certificate of marriage and a certificate of Beatrice's birth dated eleven months after the marriage they had no trouble in establishing their claim and dispossessing the man who was so anxious to possess Lady Leighton's desk.

Tilton soon after they had entered into possession of their property went abroad at Mrs. Leighton's invitation. He brought Beatrice Leighton back as his wife, and this was the end of the Leighton family in England and the continuance of the Tilton family in America.

CHRISTMAS BUYING

Here's truth applicable to the affairs of life in a number of ways:—

YOU GET WHAT YOU GIVE AWAY AND THIS IS ABSOLUTELY TRUE OF CHRISTMAS CHEER.

There never was any Christmas cheer invented or manufactured over any other prescription than by getting it through giving it away. In the giving of the Christmas Cheer comes the only real cheer that is worth while to the human.

There are many ways to help give and get this Christmas cheer and one sure way is this.

Do all the Christmas Shopping at Home

Your neighbors, the home merchants, have made preparations for the giving of the Christmas Cheer. They have taken risks in preparations. Give it back to them by spending all the Christmas dollars with them.

In buying away from home, either by going to the city or through catalogues, there will come into your consciousness the feeling that the dollars should have been spent at home and this feeling will influence toward a hiding of where the buying was done because of the dislike of any admission of disloyalty to the home community. This attitude will place one in a false light with one's self, and these are situations that worketh for cheer.

You can't get the full force and effect of giving Christmas cheer unless you put your money where it should go—to your neighbors, the merchants of the home community. Then all your efforts have been expended in the home community there comes the feeling of having been true to yourself and the home town and that all your efforts have been towards the fullest development of Christmas cheer at home. Then there will peep into the soul the cheer you have been living away.

PROTECTORATE BEING URGED

State Department Said to Be Considering the Advisability of Active Intervention, Such as Was Undertaken in Cuba.

Washington, Dec. 15.—From present indications the practical severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Nicaragua may lead to a momentous departure by this government in its dealings with Central America. It is perhaps too early to attempt any prediction as to the ultimate outcome of prevailing conditions, but enough is known to justify the suspicion at least that a radical policy is in contemplation which has a parallel only in the case of Cuba. What ever course the administration will pursue in this direction will be dependent, it is evident, on the attitude of the press and the people of the country. There is a feeling in responsible quarters that President Zelaya may commit some indignity against the United States or a foreign nation which would give cause for drastic action by this government. Such an occurrence, it is contended, would make much easier of fulfillment the evident desire felt in Washington to put Nicaragua under the suzerainty of the United States until conditions were regarded as satisfactory from the Washington point of view.

From the exterior aspect the venture of this government into the complicated international situation which has been produced through the state department's resentment of the execution of Groce and Cannon and the general course of Zelaya has not progressed as smoothly as was expected. The people of this country have declined to become excited over the Nicaraguan trouble, and there is no real responsive note in congress to a vigorous course by Secretary Knox.

It is evident, however, that the state department has gone too far in dealing with Nicaragua to be able to accomplish any adjustment which would fall short of the elimination of Zelaya. From the standpoint of pride and dignity alone it will be obliged to continue along lines intended to lead to his banishment or actual punishment. The suggestion of American intervention has furnished the cue to possible success. With no definite decision reached, as far as known, there is little profit at this time in endeavoring to outline what the United States government will do in the end, but it is within the bounds of conservative statesmanship to say that the state department would not resist any popular effort to compel the government to take charge of things in the troublesome Central American country.

Inquiry as to possible methods of procedure on the part of the government in carrying out the policy of driving Zelaya from power and remedying conditions in Nicaragua did not meet with encouragement. Several methods were apparent, however. One was actual intervention, such as was undertaken in Cuba in April, 1898, and which brought about the war with Spain. Another was suzerainty by treaty with Nicaragua, provision being made for American control until conditions were regarded as having improved sufficiently to permit of the withdrawal of the United States administration.

Rebellion in Zelaya's Capital.
Managua, Nicaragua, Dec. 15.—Rebellion has broken out at the capital. The streets are filled with untrained demonstrators. Shouts of "Long live liberty, the United States and Estrada!" fill the air. The police have made no move to check the mob.

It is said that President Zelaya has promised to publish the announcement of his resignation from the presidency.

For the first time in sixteen years a street meeting of malcontents has been permitted without police interference.

The events of the last few hours admit of but one interpretation. The anti-Zelaya feeling is so strong that the government does not dare to attempt its suppression.

The climax was reached when the government attempted to put through congress a bill conceding to certain exploiters mining rights covering vast undefined areas, irrespective of the private ownership of the surface of the properties. Congressman Enrique Codra opposed the measure in a speech that aroused the wildest enthusiasm. The government, seeing that the motion was in danger of being lost, precipitately adjourned the session.

It was too late, however to head off the burst of indignation that had swept over the legislative body, supposed to have been friendly to Zelaya. The announcement of the adjournment was greeted with hisses, and when Corda left the building he was given an ovation.

From the meeting place the congressmen who dared to publicly voice the first protest against the government in public was followed to his hotel by a mob which alternately cheered Corda and cried "Long live liberty!" and "Down with oppression!"

FOR URBAN MAIL DELIVERY

Bill in Congress to Extend Postal Facilities to Small Towns.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Folks who live in the little towns of just a few thousand population will have all the postal facilities enjoyed by people in the great cities, if a bill introduced in the house by Representative Grist, of Pennsylvania, goes through.

The bill proposes the establishment of an urban mail delivery service in each little town where there are second or third class postoffices, and it contemplates a feature of the mail service which may be viewed as an extension of the rural delivery, while in fact it also embodies the principles of the city delivery service.

INSANE ABOUT HELEN TAFT

Former School Teacher Under Sanity Probe.

New York, Dec. 15.—Ellis L. Rossen, formerly principal of a New York public school, appeared in court where his sanity will be investigated, chiefly because he has delusions concerning Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the president.

According to the testimony, Rossen imagined Miss Taft, disguised as a nurse, had visited Bellevue, where he was confined previously, and had left a sum of money for him.

Rossen was detained in Washington last spring for annoying President and Mrs. Taft, according to an affidavit submitted.

ROW IN TENEMENT COST SEVEN LIVES

Lamp Upset During Quarrel and Burning Took Fire.

Cincinnati, Dec. 15.—Seven persons lost their lives, seven were injured, two fatally, and about fifty others had narrow escapes in a fire which destroyed an old wooden tenement at Third and Sycamore streets. The dead are three men, a woman and her three children.

The fire started on the second floor from the upsetting of a kerosene lamp during a quarrel between tenants. When the sleeping inmates awoke and found the building full of smoke many rushed to windows and others to the roof.

Firemen and policemen rescued some, but others were too frightened to heed the cries of rescuers and threw themselves from the windows. Some of these were caught in blankets, but others fell to the sidewalk.

Four of the dead were found on the upper floors. Mrs. J. Henderson was found clasping one of her dead children in her arms. Her two other children were found suffocated in an adjoining room.

Blames Man For Wife's Death.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 15.—"I am satisfied you drove your wife to her death by a long series of abuses." With this brief preface, Judge Davis sentenced Frank Nemeth to three years in state prison, the limit for assault and battery. Mrs. Nemeth committed suicide on Aug. 2 last, after a beating from her husband, by jumping into the Morris canal with her child in her arms.

Town Supervisor Sentenced For Theft

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Bernard L. French, former supervisor of the town of Whitesboro, pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the first degree in having embezzled $500 of town funds. He was sentenced to not less than three nor more than six and one-half years in Auburn. In all, his shortage is alleged to be about $13,000.

PATIENTS CHAT UNDER SCALPEL

Dr. Jonnesco Demonstrates His New Anesthetic.

SURGEONS ARE IN DOUBT

Some Declare Stovaine Must Be Tested on Thousands of Cases Before It Can Take the Place of Old Method. Ether Resorted to in Long Operation.

Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—Only a towel which was held before their faces prevented two patients from watching the surgeons perform major operations upon the abdominal part of their bodies in the University hospital. While the surgeon's knife was ripping open the body and removing diseased portions of the internal organs the patients chatted and joked to the physicians who stood at their side. The first patient did not whimper or budge. The second groaned once or twice.

He said afterward: "I was afraid, and I thought they were cutting off my feet, because I did not have any feeling there. I did not feel a thing during the operation."

Six hours after the operations both patients were able to stand on their feet and said they felt fine. This is in marked contrast to the recovery from ether, which takes from twelve to eighteen hours, and which has a most depressing and nauseating effect.

Physicians Amazed.

It was the first demonstration in this city of the new spinal analgesia, stovaine and strychnine, by Dr. Thomas Jonnesco, the eminent Bucharest surgeon, who predicts that it will eventually take the place of ether and chloroform as anesthetics.

Prominent physicians looked on with amazement as the patients chatted during the operation.

Although the surgeons and physicians were amazed there were many who were reluctant to prefer the new method over the present one. They declared that the method introduced by Dr. Jonnesco had not been given a thorough test, and that not until it had been used in thousands and hundreds of thousands of cases and proved successful would it replace ether.

The third operation was that on a woman for cancer of the breast. Because of an overdose of stovaine the patient collapsed about fifteen minutes after the operation commenced, but shortly recovered and the operation continued. It was an operation two hours long, and with the consent of Dr. Jonnesco ether was administered when the effects of stovaine began to disappear. This was explained by George Soutzo, secretary for Dr. Jonnesco, who said that surgeons in this country operate very slowly, and that when Dr. Jonnesco saw that a second and possibly a third injection of stovaine would be necessary before the completion of the operation, he agreed to the use of ether, as he was anxious to get away.

Although spinal analgesia is not unknown in this city, it has been used only in rare cases, where neither ether nor chloroform could be used. The chief objection raised to it was that it had a depressing effect on the heart, but Dr. Jonnesco says that with the addition of strychnine the obstacle is overcome and that operations can be safely performed on all parts of the body. It was to convince the surgeons in this country that he came over to give practical demonstrations.

There were fully 500 learned surgeons and physicians and University students in the Scott amphitheater when the clinic began.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube.

When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WILSON GIVES BOY FARMERS AWARDS

Four Chosen Winners in Agricultural Contest.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Diplomas of merit were presented by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, in his office at the department of agriculture, to Bascomb Usher, of South Carolina; Dewitt Lundy, of Mississippi; Elmer Halter, of Arkansas, and Ralph Bellwood, of Virginia—all boys under eighteen years—for special proficiency in agricultural pursuits.

The recipients of the awards are among the 12,500 in the boys' demonstration work in the south. Each planted one acre of corn and cultivated it under instructions from the department of agriculture.

The diploma winner from South Carolina made 152½ bushels per acre; 147 bushels were made in Mississippi, 135 bushels in North Carolina, and 122 bushels in Virginia. The club average was about 60 bushels. All southern states are making arrangements to send the prize winners to Washington next year.

In a brief address to the boys, Secretary Wilson declared they, and the boys engaged in like work, are "the only hope we have for the continued greatness and prosperity of the country."

6663 ROOSEVELT SKINS

Smithsonian Institution Enumerates Trophies of African Expedition.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Smithsonian African expedition headed by former President Theodore Roosevelt had up to Dec. 10 taken 6663 skins, of which less than one-half have been received at the institution here. The collection consists of 243 large mammals, 1500 small mammals and 1356 birds. The collection has a series of human skulls picked up along the line of the ancient slave trail.

Falls Dead Going For Doctor.

Laurel, Del., Dec. 15.—John Jones, aged thirty-two years, a Wetpinqu farmer, dropped dead while hitching up a horse to go for a doctor to attend his wife, who had been taken suddenly ill with acute indigestion. A five-year-old son discovered the body of Jones and informed his sick mother. Mrs. Jones in the meantime had become unconscious from her sufferings and the shock of her husband's death and is in a precarious condition.

Oil Magnate Declared Insane.

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Hampton Gould Westcott, president of the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, was declared insane and incompetent to manage his estate by a sheriff's jury. Mr. Westcott is an inmate of Bloomingdale asylum, where he has been since June 1 last. His mind is said to have given way because of fear he would be called as a witness in the proceedings brought by the government to dissolve the oil trust.

Expert Killed by Dynamite.

Lansford, Pa., Dec. 15.—In a premature explosion of dynamite at Nesquehoning, William H. Bond, an expert mining contractor, was killed and three laborers were slightly injured.

DECLARE WAR ON STEEL TRUST

Labor Leaders Prepare For a Bitter Struggle.

TO APPEAL TO GOVERNMENT

Will Call on the President and Congress to Investigate the Steel Corporation—Declare Conditions Are Bad—Issue a Statement.

Pittsburg, Dec. 15.—Labor leaders who have been in conference for the past two days in the Monongahela house adopted resolutions and declared war on the United States Steel corporation. There are forty-five of the leading and most influential labor leaders in the conference, and their decision that the big steel corporation must be curbed and forced to recognize the rights of the workmen is country-wide.

The men in the conference represent every big labor union in the country, and they call upon the federal government, the governors of states, officials of counties and municipalities to take steps to bring the big corporation to realize that the condition of the workmen in their plants must be alleviated. A committee will be appointed to call upon the governors and other government officials and lay their grievances before them. Funds are also asked to aid the movement.

Labor Leaders' Statement.

The statement in part is:

"A crisis in the affairs of labor has arisen. The gigantic trust, the United States Steel corporation, has used and is using its great wealth and power in an effort to rob the toilers not only of a livelihood, but of their right of American manhood, and of the opportunity to resist its further encroachments.

"The United States Steel corporation has declared war on labor. In its secret councils this corporation has decreed that the only obstacle to its complete sway—organized labor—shall be crushed. This soulless corporation represents nothing but dollars, knowing neither body nor soul. Its god is the almighty dollar.

"In view of the great wrongs perpetrated by the United States Steel corporation, not only against the workers, but the whole public generally, we recommend that a committee be appointed by this conference to wait upon the president of the United States, the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives, for the purpose of laying before them the grievances from which labor suffers at the hands of this corporation, and the committee herein provided demand a thorough investigation as to the legality of the actions and the existence under the law of the United States Steel corporation.

"We, therefore, recommend that committees be appointed by this conference to wait upon the governors of states and other officials of counties and municipalities as are in control where the United States Steel corporation has plants located, for the purpose of presenting to these officials the great wrongs inflicted upon the people of these communities, and that the committee demand an investigation of the complaints made, and where charges made are substantiated by evidence, the officers responsible therefore be removed, and the wrongs immediately righted."

A Wonderful Herd of Cows.

Columbus Mo., Dec. 15.—A wonderful dairy herd of nine cows is owned by the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri. Eight of the nine cows have each a butter record of 700 pounds in a year, and the ninth has produced nineteen pounds of butter in a week and forty-seven quarts of milk in a day. There are only seven cows of the Jersey breed anywhere that have made records of more than 700 pounds of butter in a year, and five of these were in Missouri's exhibit at the state fair at Sedalia this year. These five cows were bred and are owned by the college.

Messenger Boys Get $45 a Month.

New York, Dec. 15.—The legislature's telephone investigating committee was startled by a disclosure of the fact that some Postal Telegraph messenger boys got as much as $45 a month. This information was drawn from Edward J. Nally, vice president and general manager of the Postal. But the messenger's salary depends, however, a good deal on good legwork. Mr. Nally said the boys are paid from 1½ to 3 cents on each message.

Fort Added to Governors' Committee.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Governor John Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, has been added as a member of the committee to prepare a program for the annual conference of the governors of all the states, to be held in Washington in January. Governor Hughes is chairman of the committee and the other members are Governors Harmon, of Ohio, and Weeks, of Connecticut.

MAY HURRY BIG STRIKE

500,000 Railroad Men May Cast Lot With the Switchmen.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Acting on the suggestion of President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, H. B. Perham has issued a call for a special meeting of the railroad employees' department, to be held in St. Paul on Dec. 18. This will take the place of the meeting which was to have been held in January, 1910, and the date for which was set by the federation meeting at Toronto. The change in time of the gathering, and the fact that it is to be held in St. Paul, the central point in the strike of the railway switchmen, now being waged against thirteen northern and northwestern railroads, are taken to mean that the railroad employees' department, with a total strength of nearly 500,000 men, is going to be prepared to cast its entire strength with the striking switchmen. Whether a general strike of the ten branches of the department is to be called in the event of failure of the switchmen to settle their labor troubles, Mr. Perham would not say.

LAUGHS HERSELF TO DEATH

Husband's Funny Story Told at Midnight Proves Fatal.

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 15.—Laughter over a funny story told her by her husband caused the death of Mrs. Daniel F. Shimp, of Ephrata. Mrs. Shimp, who had not been in the best of health recently, retired early. Her husband awoke her about midnight and told her a funny story he had heard. This caused the woman to laugh heartily, and the exertion proved too much for her weakened heart. She was laughing as she died.

LEOPOLD RALLIES FROM OPERATION

"Well, I Pulled Through," His Greeting to Crown Prince.

Brussels, Dec. 15.—"Well, I pulled through, after all." Thus King Leopold, chuckling contentedly, greeted Crown Prince Albert and Premier Schollert, following his operation for intestinal trouble. Not only the physicians attending the royal patient, but court officials and Belgians generally were amazed at the vitality of his majesty to rally so successfully from an operation which was decided as a last resort to save the king's life.

When, following the operation, his majesty regained consciousness he was told of what had been accomplished.

CROWN PRINCE ALBERT.

ed and expressed great satisfaction. He said that the removal of the obstruction in the intestines afforded him marked relief. The physicians now are more hopeful of the ultimate recovery of the royal patient.

There is the greatest mystery regarding the possibility of the king receiving his daughters, the Princesses Louise and Stephanie. A rumor to the effect that he would welcome Louise to his bedside is unconfirmed, and all Brussels is speculating on the outcome of the family dissension.

American Minister Henry Lane Wilson has expressed to the royal family his sympathy in the hour of their anxiety and keeps himself informed as to his majesty's condition.

Guaranty Fund Protects.

Guthrie, Okla., Dec. 15.—State funds amounting to $122,867 are on deposit in the Farmers' National bank, of Tulsa, which closed its doors, according to the statement by Governor Haskell. "There is enough money in the state guaranty fund," said Governor Haskell, "to protect all depositors in state guaranteed banks unless too many of these national banks tie up funds belonging to the state banks."

Had Fortune in Hand Bag.

Monterey, Cal., Dec. 15.—Holding fast to a handbag in which were $12,000 worth of diamonds and other jewelry, $20,000 in railroad and industrial bonds and insurance policies for $30,000 on property in Oakland, a woman about fifty-five years old, was found ill in the street. She had a letter addressed to a Mrs. Ina L. Cummings, in Oakland.

Baby Fatally Bitten by Rats.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Mary Polich, aged nine weeks, was probably fatally bitten about the face and head by rats while her mother was away from her home. When the mother returned from marketing she saw rats swarming about the baby's cradle and fainted.

A LEGEND OF THE ORIGIN OF LACE.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

A mention of the word Venice always suggests something delicately artistic. Perhaps the beauty of a city arising out of the sea is the fundamental cause of this. Its founders, driven in the fifth century from the mainland by Attila the Hun, took refuge among the lagoons and built the only city in the world similarly situated. Eight hundred years later Venice became mistress of all seas.

It was at this time of her supremacy that one afternoon a girl sat at a window engaged in fine needlework. Now and again she would glance out of the window over the Adriatic spread before her. At one of these glances she saw the sun gild the sails of an incoming vessel. She dropped her work, ran down and out on to the dock. There she watched the vessel approach and at last cast anchor, when a boat was lowered and pulled to the shore. As soon as it touched the dock a young sailor jumped out, ran to the girl, and they were locked in a lovers' embrace.

The lovers did not long remain where they were, but hurried to the girl's home, where they asked and answered quick questions as to what had transpired during their separation. Then the young man produced a bunch of delicate coralline and handed it to her.

"I have brought this for you, Francesca, as a gift most fitted to please one who is so fond of minute workmanship. It is lace made by mermaids in the coral caverns under the waters of the seas of India."

Francesca took the coralline and examined it, admiring its beautiful texture.

"It is indeed beautiful, Giovanni, but pretty as it is I will make something prettier."

"How?" asked the lover, surprised.

"With my needle."

"That is impossible. I know how expert you are in such work, but you can never equal this. At any rate, I, who have visited every country, have never seen anything like it."

"That may be. Nevertheless I will do as I say. When the day for our wedding comes you shall see what I have made. It shall be a bridal veil of mermaid's lace."

Shortly after this the young man sailed away again. From her window Francesca watched the white wings that bore him from her till they faded into a mist on the horizon; then she began her work. She had hunted the city for a finer thread than she had ever had before—such a thread as the mermaids had used—and, failing to find it, had induced a spinner to make some for her. It was almost as fine as a spider's web. This thread she now began to weave into the delicate figures made by the mermaids. Day by day she worked with her needle, forming little white knots and tiny stars, uniting them by delicate "bridges."

A month passed, and she had produced as much in length as she could span with her thumb and little finger. She was delighted with it. Month after month she worked on, barely giving her eyes the rest they needed, till at last she had produced a long bridal veil that would reach from her head to the floor. When waved slowly in the air it resembled a white cloud floating in the heavens, but when the vision was permitted to rest upon its texture it was found to be marvelously beautiful.

One of Francesca's friends told about the wonderful mermaid lace that was being created for a bridal veil, and its fame was soon spread abroad. One of the highborn Venetian dames heard of it and went to Francesca's home to see it. Francesca showed it to her, and she went away to tell her friends that it was a new creation in feminine apparel. Then others saw it, and as each pronounced upon it its fame grew till all the aristocratic women in the city were talking, wondering, envying.

Francesca was completing her work, sitting by her window, watching, as before, for the return of her lover, when his ship came in. This time she waited for him to come to her. As he entered the room she held the white cloud aloft.

"See," she said, "what I have done. Compare it with your gift and see which is the more beautiful."

When the wedding day arrived a crowd was waiting at her gondola that was to bear her to the church. As the bridal party was poled along the canal the windows were crowded with women waiting to catch a glimpse of the wonderful veil. They could only see what looked like a mist arising from Francesca's head and floating about her shoulders. When they reached the church many ladies were waiting near the altar. These crowded about the locality of the bride, and the solemnity of the ceremony was marred by the attention given the veil and the exclamations of wonder at its marvelous beauty.

More than six centuries have passed since the caves under the Indian seas gave up the work of the coral insect on which to base a pattern for mermaid lace. Many fingers have been employed, many eyes have been dimmed, in its manufacture. The thread that has since been used has been made so fine that it will snap in frosty weather. But it is no longer called mermaid lace. Machinery has taken up the work of making lace, and to distinguish that made by hand from that made by the loom the former is called guipure.

Sergt. Matthew Doyle

Released from the Bondage of Rheumatism. Now Ready for Active Service.

Read what he says about Rheuma, the prescription People's Drug Store guarantees:

"Fort Porter, Buffalo, June 26, '09. Just about to depart for the Philippines, but want to thank you before I go for the benefits received from the use of Rheuma. Have been in the U. S. Army service for nearly 30 years, and during that time have seen much field service in Indian uprisings and in Cuba and the Philippines. The result was an attack of Rheumatism which I found it impossible to destroy until I tried Rheuma. Was in such serious condition that I had been relieved from all field duty, drills, etc. Took less than three bottles, and am now performing the regular routine of duty once more." 1st Sergt. Matthew Doyle, Co. D, 12th Inf.

Can the statement of such a man be doubted? Is there a Rheumatic sufferer in Gettysburg who is going to continue to live in dread and agony in the face of such a letter, especially when People's Drug Store says: "If Rheuma doesn't do just as much for you as it did for Sergt. Doyle, you can have your money back. Only 50c a bottle. Mail orders filled by Rheuma Co., 1000 West 7th., Buffalo

TRAINING THE HORN.

Ordinary Gas Pipe Said to Be Best For This Purpose.

Few of us can ignore the dictates of fashion. We wear a certain kind of clothes because it is the fashion to do so. We get into stiff and affected ways in our relation to society because fashion says that we must do this and we must do that. Even in handling farm animals we cannot always have our own way, but must conform to certain decrees of fashion.

The subject is brought up at this time by a farmer who finds himself in possession of a bull having very unfashionable horns, says the Homestead. His desire is to have the horns curve nicely toward the front and downward, but instead of this the points of the horns are getting farther away from the head every day. He asks about the advisability of using "horn trainers" or any other device to bring these into the desirable shape. He calls attention to the fact that one instance came under his notice where a horn trainer resulted in destroying the ends of both horns, making the last stage of the animal worse than the first.

We shall take it for granted that the animal in question is either a Short-horn or a Hereford, though this matter is not stated. In our opinion no device yet invented will take the place of "weight" applied alike to each horn. We have tried the brass caps that are ordinarily found on the market, but have never been able to obtain caps of sufficient weight to bring about the desired results. One of the best and simplest plans that we have ever tried involves the use of a piece of ordinary gas pipe or, what is still better, the use of two "unions." A union is nothing more or less than the joint used for connecting two pipes of different sizes. The diameter of one side of the union may be three inches and the other side two inches. This lessening of size makes it fit the shape of the horn snugly.

Of course in case of a large animal it may be necessary to use a union four inches in diameter at one end and three inches at the other, but in the case of a young animal the first size mentioned is generally large enough. Place one on each horn and then wire securely from one to the other. So much the better if they go on to the horn so that two or three inches of the tip project beyond the end of the union, because when the weight is applied in that way the effect will be to bend the horn at the base rather than to give the end an undesirable tilt downward. In addition to applying the weight in this way it is a very good thing to weaken the horn at the lower side of the base by a little filing or cutting.

The instructions given above only apply in cases where it is the intention to give the horn a downward curve with an inward tendency, the weight applied in this case tending to bring the horn down, and the wiring will result in gradually training the horns closer together at the point. When it comes to the matter of giving the horns an upward curve, as is desired in the case of Jersey cattle, it must be confessed that this is largely the work of an expert, and an amateur is very apt to do more harm than good.

Stool and Bucket Holder.

A dairyman who has had trouble with the cow kicking over the milk bucket says he has had no further difficulty in this direction since using the bench shown in the illustration. It is made like an ordinary stool, except that the top is about two and one-half feet long. A half circle is cut in one end, and a piece of iron hoop (one from a cask will serve the purpose), is nailed to the end having the half circle and is made just the size that will exactly hold the bucket.

Some Dairy Pointers.

The leading principle in the care of milk is cleanliness. Milk that is not clean is worse than no milk. You don't want it at all.

Don't be afraid to pay a good price for a cow. If a forty dollar cow clears 7 per cent, one that clears 14 per cent ought to be worth $80.

Any farmer who makes butter or sells the cream from as many as five cows needs a separator to get the best profits.

Cream from strippers is hard to churn because the particles of butter fat do not stick together well. The difficulty is generally remedied by feeding silage or green food and protein.

Cream should be ripened from ten to twenty-four hours and churned at a temperature of 52 to 54 degrees. This will give butter with good grain and body.

Cleaning Milk Utensils.

Discard the dishcloth and the dish towel when the milk utensils are being washed. Wash them in warm water first, with plenty of some washing compound, and use a brush to do the work, but never a rag. Get into every part of them, after which rinse off with clean warm water, and then either put them in boiling water or pour boiling water over them. Stand the parts up so that they will drain and use no cloth to wipe them. The hot surface will dry them quickly, and they will be clean. Leave the parts in a sunshiny place if possible.

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Harry Veiner

A Military Engagement.
The commanding officer had surprised the young lieutenant and his daughter trying to occupy the same chair. The lieutenant sprang to his feet and saluted.
"Sir," he said, "I have the honor to report an engagement at close quarters, in which I have been entirely victorious. It now merely remains for you to give your sanction to the terms of surrender."

A Pretty Broad Hint.
A popular and good looking bachelor who is a regular patron of a circulating library dropped in there the other day. "I am going on a short trip, Miss Blank," he said to the young lady at the desk, "and want to take a couple of interesting novels, but I can't make up my mind which two to select. Couldn't you help me out?"

"ME ONE OF EACH AND I'LL BE SATISFIED."
"I am afraid my selections might not prove interesting to you," replied Miss Blank.
"Just pick out two books for me and I'll guarantee to like them," he rejoined gallantly.
"Have you read Barrie's or Reade's novels?" she asked.
"No; get me one of each and I'll be satisfied," he replied.
She selected two and handed them to her spouseless acquaintance, who, after warmly thanking her for the favor she had done him, turned up the backs of the books and read these titles:
"When a Man's Single."
"It is Never Too Late to Mend."

DON'TS.
Don't imagine because you've won a cup your way up. Many a slip between the cup and the tiptop.
Don't stuff your hens all day and expect them all to lay. Make them scratch for a living, as you do.
Don't neglect to tame your fowls. Cruelty is foreign to a true fancier, and friendliness counts everywhere.
Don't get mad if others differ with you. It's a sign of a kink in your think.
Don't run that incubator in your barn nor have your brooder in among the mites and lice.
Don't raise Leghorns for market finishing. Big breeds for fattening feeds.
Don't expect an order from every inquiry nor waste your gray matter on long business letters.
Don't strain yourself to sell birds to cranks. It matters not, you get no thanks.
Don't think because severe winter is hard on fowls that warm weather is not a disease breeder.
Don't let those young turkeys run in the filthy barnyard nor expect squabs to develop in dirt.
Don't feed much corn in the summer. Oats and wheat for grains, add bran and mid mash for gains.
Don't keep crippled chickens nor one eyed roup victims in your pens. It spoils the picture.
Don't have a beautiful farm and a flock of spotted culls. They don't match.
Don't advertise thoroughbreds and hide part of your stock. That looks fishy.
Don't have a beautiful cut and a large display ad. and expect it to pay if you sell what is bad.
Don't worry about the trouble of tomorrow nor leap ahead to seek some future sorrow. Soon will come the setting sun and your work will not be done; then you'll be bad and sad where you might have been good and glad.
Don't forget that neatness and dispatch in shipping gain a customer's approval. Fine goods, well sent, make the best advertisement.

COUNTY MAN MAKES HENS LAY

But Gettysburg Woman Refuses to Take Suggestion. Man Tries to Pick up Grade Marker. Fears Bad Luck at Times Office.

Within the past few days several little incidents have occurred in Gettysburg which have afforded considerable amusement to those who were fortunate enough to be witnesses.
The first took place a few evenings ago when a stranger suddenly noticed a shining object on one of the pavement corners. He watched for a few moments to see that no one was looking and then stooped to pick up the supposed coin. He tugged for several seconds until he found that he had been trying to pull up one of the grade markers encased in concrete. He quickly made himself as scarce as possible.
Two Washington street women were heard talking about the high price of eggs and complained that their hens were not doing their duty. One remarked that she had heard of an Adams County farmer who posted a notice that eggs were ten cents a dozen. Immediately the hens got busy. One of the women in question recommended that treatment for the other's fowls but she replied in disgust, "I wouldn't humiliate my hens that way."
A valued subscriber from the North End of the county paid The Times office a call the other day. He entered by way of the mechanical end of the place and after transacting his business in the office was told he could find it more convenient to go out by way of the front office door. He replied "Not on your life. That would be the worst kind of luck!" and retracing his steps he took the trouble to walk all the way around in order to go out by the same door by which he entered.

AID FOR FARMERS' WIVES.

Uncle Sam's Extension of Institute Idea a Help For Women.
Extension of the farmers' institute idea to include the farmers' wives is the latest development of the policy of paternal solicitude for the great American agriculturist as pursued by the department of agriculture. The betterment of the home surroundings of the farmer, with particular regard for the advantages of good housekeeping, wholesome cooking, the observance of the laws of sanitation, the beautifying of the home inside and out, the economical administration of the women's side of the business of farming, pure water, ventilation and an endless variety of minor items which will tend to make the life of the farmer's wife and daughters more attractive are the purpose of this new division of the department.
Professor John Hamilton, formerly state secretary of agriculture of Pennsylvania, is at the head of the division of farmers' institutes.
The work of the women's institutes is perhaps broader in its scope than that for the men. It is certainly more varied. In twenty-one states of the Union they have begun the work already, and within a year or so every agricultural state in the Union will have organized institutes for the women folk.
The department of agriculture has just issued its first pamphlet on the subject of the farmers' institute for women. It is hoped that this will be but a forerunner of much more along the same lines. It is the hope of the department authorities that they will be able to put in circulation a comprehensive series of bulletins, similar to those in regular circulation on general farm subjects, which will prove of real interest and great value to the farm women of America—really worth while treatises on the art and science of living and being happy amid ideal farm surroundings.

A Fire Extinguisher.

In case of fire if the burning articles are at once splashed with a solution of salt and nitrate of ammonia an inflammable coating is formed. This is a preparation which can be made at home at a trifling cost and should be kept on hand. Dissolve twenty pounds of common salt and ten pounds of nitrate of ammonia in seven gallons of water. Pour this into quart bottles of thin glass, and fire grenades are at hand ready for use. These bottles must be tightly corked and sealed to prevent evaporation, and in case of fire they must be thrown near the flames so as to break and liberate the gas contained. At least two dozen of these bottles should be ready for an emergency.

Money in Peppers and Beans.

There is money in peppers, especially the large sweet, green pepper, as it can be used in so many ways from salad to pickle. There is always a sale for them, whether one lives on a farm or in a village. Just let it be known that you have peppers for sale and see how fast the orders come in. You will not even have to deliver them. These peppers sell, according to their size, from 5 cents to 10 cents apiece, and from one good plant one can average $1 and sometimes more. The smaller kind used in mixed pickles find a ready sale too. Lima beans are another thing that one can sell and make money on.
